Case No.: 13-cv-2240-GPC-MDD

ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFFS' MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL

[Dkt. No. 214]

21 Presently before the Court is a Motion for New Trial filed by Plaintiffs the Estate of 22 Angel Lopez, Lydia Lopez, Angel Lopez, Jr., and Hector Lopez, by and through their 23 Guardian Ad Litem, Lydia Lopez (“Plaintiffs”) on November 22, 2017. Dkt. No. 214. On 24 December 8, 2017, Defendants Kristopher Walb and the City of San Diego (“Defendants”) 25 filed an opposition. Dkt. No. 223. Plaintiffs filed their reply on December 15, 2017. Dkt.
26 No. 224. On December 18, 2017, Plaintiffs withdrew and re-filed their reply with 27
28

1 accompanying supplemental exhibits.¹ Dkt. Nos. 225-27. Defendants filed an objection to 2 the reply and the late-filed supplemental exhibits on December 20, 2017. Dkt. No. 228.

3 A jury trial was held beginning on August 23, 2017 through September 1, 2017. Dkt.
4 Nos. 157, 185. On August 23, 2017, Plaintiffs made a motion for mistrial after Defendant's 5 Opening Statement, which the Court denied. Dkt. No. 157. On August 30, 2017, Plaintiffs 6 renewed their motion for mistrial, which the Court denied. Dkt. No. 175. Plaintiffs again 7 sought mistrial on September 1, 2017, which was denied. Dkt. Nos. 180, 185. On 8 September 5, 2017, the jury returned a verdict against Plaintiffs on their claims for a 9 Section 1983 violation, battery, Civil Code 52.1 (California's Bane Act) and negligent use 10 of force. Dkt. No. 193.

11 Based on a review of the briefing, the relevant record, and the applicable law, the 12 Court DENIES Plaintiffs' motion for a new trial. The Court deems this motion suitable 13 for disposition without oral argument pursuant to Civil Local Rule 7.1(d)(1).

14 I. Legal Standard

15 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure ("Rule") 59(a)(1) provides that the court, on a 16 motion, may grant a new trial on all or some of the issues "after a jury trial, for any reason 17 for which a new trial has heretofore been granted in an action at law in federal court. . . ."
18 Fed. R. Civ. P. 59(a)(1)(A). A motion to grant new trial must be filed no later than 28 days 19 after the entry of judgment. Fed. R. Civ. P. 59(b).² The court is "bound by those grounds 20 that have been historically recognized." Zhang v. Am. Gem Seafoods, Inc., 339 F.3d 1020, 22 ¹ The Court admonishes Plaintiffs for their tardiness in filing the supplemental exhibits. However, the 23 Court will consider these exhibits as they are transcript excerpts that are a part of the public record.

24 With regard to Defendants' Objection, the Court observes that Defendants do not identify with any 25 specificity particular arguments or new facts raised in the first instance on reply.

26 ² Judgment in this case was not issued until October 25, 2017 and Plaintiffs' motion was timely filed on 27 November 22, 2017. The Court observes that Plaintiffs' counsel Eugene Iredale originally requested, 28 and was granted, a 60 day extension from the date of the verdict, September 1, 2017 (which ended October 31, 2017). Dkt. No. 209 at 21. Due to the fact that judgment in this case was not issued until October 25, 2017, Plaintiffs' motion, filed on November 22, 2017, was timely filed pursuant to Rule 59.

1 1035 (9th Cir. 2003). One of these grounds is if the verdict is contrary to the weight of 2 the evidence. Molski v. M.J. Cable, Inc., 481 F.3d 724, 729 (9th Cir. 2007). Erroneous 3 evidentiary rulings are also grounds for a new trial as long as the error “substantially 4 prejudiced” a party. Ruvalcaba v. City of Los Angeles, 64 F.3d 1323, 1328 (9th Cir. 1995).

5 In deciding a Rule 59(a) motion, “[t]he judge can weigh the evidence and assess the 6 credibility of witnesses, and need not view the evidence from the perspective most 7 favorable to the prevailing party.” Landes Const. Co., Inc. v. Royal Bank of Canada, 833 8 F.2d 1365, 1371 (9th Cir. 1973). However, a stringent standard applies when the motion 9 is based on insufficiency of the evidence. Venegas v. Wagner, 831 F.2d 1514, 1519 (9th 10 Cir. 1987). On this basis, a motion will be granted only if the verdict “is against the great 11 weight of the evidence, or it is quite clear that the jury has reached a seriously erroneous 12 result.” E.E.O.C. v. Pape Lift, Inc., 115 F.3d 676, 680 (9th Cir. 1997) (internal quotations 13 omitted). “The district court cannot substitute its evaluations for those of the jurors.” Tortu 14 v. Las Vegas Metro. Police Dept., 556 F.3d 1075, 1084 (9th Cir. 2009) (internal quotations 15 omitted). The court “may not grant or deny a new trial merely because it would have 16 arrived at a different verdict.” United States v. 4.0 Acres of Land, 175 F.3d 1133, 1139 17 (9th Cir. 1999). The Ninth Circuit provides the following guidance on this somewhat 18 imprecise standard:

19 On the one hand, the trial judge does not sit to approve miscarriages of justice.
20 His power to set aside the verdict is supported by clear precedent at common 21 law and, far from being a denigration or a usurpation of jury trial, has long 22 been regarded as an integral part of trial by jury as we know it. On the other 23 hand, a decent respect for the collective wisdom of the jury, and for the 24 function entrusted to it in our system, certainly suggests that in most cases the 25 judge should accept the findings of the jury, regardless of his own doubts in 26 the matter. Probably all that the judge can do is to balance these conflicting

1 principles in the light of the facts of the particular case. If, having given full 2 respect to the jury's findings the judge on the entire evidence is left with the 3 definite and firm conviction that a mistake has been committed, it is to be 4 expected that he will grant a new trial.

5 Landes Const. Co., Inc., 833 F.2d at 1371-72 (footnotes omitted). The district court has 6 discretion in ruling on a motion for a new trial. SEC v. Todd, 642 F.3d 1207, 1225 (9th 7 Cir. 2011). "Where there are two permissible views of the evidence, the factfinder's choice 8 between them cannot be clearly erroneous." Anderson v. Bessemer City, 470 U.S. 564, 574 9 (1985). "Doubts about the correctness of the verdict are not sufficient grounds for a new 10 trial: the trial court must have a firm conviction that the jury has made a mistake." Landes 11 Const. Co., Inc., 833 F.2d at 1372.

12 II. Background

13 On January 17, 2013, San Diego police officer Kristopher Walb shot and killed 14 Angel Lopez. Vol. II at 419-420. Officer Walb was in his fifth month as a member of a 15 Special Response Team in the San Diego Police Department's SWAT team.³ Vol. II at 16 417.

17 Officer Walb's team arrived at the 5444 Reservoir apartment complex between 9:00 18 A.M. and 10:00 A.M. that morning. Vol. II at 441. Sergeant Ramsay, the SWAT React 19 Team leader, testified that prior to arriving at the apartment complex, he briefed Officer 20 Walb and the React Team outside of their van in the Eastern Division parking lot and inside 21 of the van on the way to the apartment complex. Vol. V at 1089. Sergeant Ramsay told 22 Walb and the officers that they were dealing with two wanted parolees, who were 23 considered armed and dangerous. Id. The two parolees were a father and son and there 24 was information regarding a third person who might be a kidnapping victim. Id. at 1090.

26 ³ Officer Walb first joined the SWAT team in October 2005 as a member of the Primary Response 27 Team, where he had other non-SWAT duties as a police officer. Vol. III at 537.

1 Sergeant Ramsay provided Walb the suspects' names, photos, and information that Angel 2 Lopez was a documented gang member with a prior weapons history and was always 3 known to carry a handgun. Id.

4 Walb initially recalled that Sergeant Ramsay had informed him and his team that 5 two wanted parolees were at the apartment complex and there was possibly a hostage 6 situation inside of the apartment, that the individuals had cartel-connections, and that the 7 individuals could be armed with AK-47s and possibly possessed a shotgun. Vol. II at 442; 8 Vol. III at 558-59. Walb had also been told that Angel Lopez could be armed with a pistol.
9 Id. at 510. Meanwhile, in an affidavit filed with a pretrial motion, Walb had declared that 10 he had been told Lopez was in a cartel and a gang. Id. at 501. Walb testified that—in his 11 mind—the threat potential of a cartel was much higher than that of a particular gang. Vol.
12 III at 564.

13 After arriving, the police attempted to stop two individuals on the sidewalk outside 14 the apartment complex. Id. at 583. Over the radio, Walb and his team heard “They are 15 rabbitting. They are rabbitting towards the apartment,” a term that means the suspects are 16 running away from the police. Id. Following this announcement, Walb’s team was 17 assigned the mission to contain the apartment. Id. at 584. Officer Walb and his team exited 18 their van and began to move towards the stairs with the goal to eventually enter the third 19 floor where the Apartment 58 was located. Id. at 585. Walb believed that they would run 20 into the suspect in the apartment complex. Id. at 588.

21 Officer Walb was going up a stairwell when a closed door at the top of the 22 stairwell—that led to the third floor hallway—was opened by Angel Lopez. Id. at 513.
23 Walb immediately identified Lopez because he matched a similar description—particularly 24 with regard to tattoos—to pictures he had viewed in preparation for the mission. Id. at 514.
25 Lopez saw Walb, turned and ran into the hallway, after closing the door behind him. Id. at 26 514, 516. Walb continued up the stairs and yelled “Get down. Get down. Get down.” Id.

1 at 514. Walb opened the door and saw that Lopez was approximately 10 to 15 feet away
2 from him. Id. Lopez continued to run, holding his hand in his left pocket, and continuously 3 pulled and tugged at his pocket while he ran. Id. at 489. In the hallway, Walb yelled “Get 4 down. Get down. Get down,” and further yelled “[t]ake your hands out of your pockets.
5 Get down. Get down.” Id. at 515. Meanwhile, Officer Pickett was also yelling “Left hand.

7 Lopez ran to an alcove in front of Apartment 58, where Walb believed he pulled on 8 a door to try to get inside. Id. at 517. After a few seconds, Lopez came out of the alcove 9 and walked down the hallway with his left hand in his pocket. Id. at 603. Lopez slowed 10 down to a stop, began to bend his knees, and continued to tug at his pants with his left hand.
11 Id. at 604. Walb testified that Lopez was turning towards him at the time he shot. Vol. II 12 at 431; Vol. III at 604-05. Officer Walb testified that Lopez was not on his knees when he 13 shot, but was standing with a slight bend in his knees. Vol. II at 424. Officer Walb shot 14 Angel Lopez by “double tapping” the trigger on his MP5 Machine Pistol. Vol. II at 232, 15 430. Officer Walb aimed at center mass. Id. at 420. In total, six bullets were discharged.
16 Id. at 427.

17 III. Discussion

18 a. The Jury Verdict was not Against the Clear Weight of the Evidence

19 Defendants argue that the evidence presented at trial shows that Lopez defied Officer 20 Walb’s commands, refused to take his left hand out of his pocket, and made a distinct 21 movement toward his right toward the direction of the officers. The totality of the 22 circumstances, defendants argue, would have made any reasonable officer believe Lopez 23 was about to use a weapon. Opp. at 4 (citing Vol. III at 607-08). Plaintiffs argue that the 24 clear weight of the evidence shows that the defense case is inconsistent with the physical 25 evidence. The heart of Plaintiffs’ argument is that the wound paths are inconsistent with 26 the Defendants’ theory that Angel stood upright and pivoted to his right at the time of the 27

shots. Opp. at 5. Plaintiffs point to the upward angles of the three wound paths to argue that these wound paths could not have existed unless Walb was shooting from a position several feet below where Angel was. Opp. at 6.

Plaintiff argues that the case resolved itself into a single factual issue: the position of decedent when Walb shot and killed him. Dkt. No. 214-1 at 5. This assertion ignores the instructions of law provided to the jury.⁴ See Dkt. No. 194 at 24-25 (Jury Instruction 9.25 re: Excessive Force). In evaluating the evidence presented at trial, the jury was required to consider the relevant factors which bear on the reasonableness of the use of deadly force. First, as to the nature of the crime and circumstances known to Walb at the time force was applied, Walb was provided information warranting a SWAT response to a potential hostage situation created by a drug cartel member. Given these facts, it would have been reasonable for Walb to conclude that Lopez posed an immediate threat to the hostage victim as well as the police officers who sought to save the hostage victim.⁵

⁴ The jury instructions (adapted from the Ninth Circuit's Model Jury Instruction 9.25) stated:

In determining whether the officer used excessive force in this case, consider all of the circumstances known to the officer on the scene, including:

1. the nature of the crime or other circumstances known to the officer at the time force was applied;
2. whether the decedent posed an immediate threat to the safety of the officer or to others;
3. whether the decedent was actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest by flight;
4. the amount of time the officer had to determine the type and amount of force that reasonably appeared necessary, and any changing circumstances during that period;
5. the type and amount of force used;
6. the availability of alternative methods to take Angel Lopez into custody;
7. the number of lives at risk (civilians, police officers) and the parties' relative culpability; i.e., which party created the dangerous situation, and which party is more innocent;
8. whether it was practical for the officer to give warning of the imminent use of force, and whether such warning was given;
9. whether a reasonable officer would have or should have accurately perceived a mistaken fact;
10. whether there was probable cause for a reasonable officer to believe that the suspect had committed a crime involving the infliction or threatened infliction of serious physical harm.

Dkt. No. 194 at 24-25.

⁵ The SRT team specialized in hostage rescue missions. Vol. III at 544.

1 Further, given Lopez's decision to flee, it was clear that Lopez was actively resisting arrest 2 and attempting to evade arrest by flight. The evidence supported a conclusion that the 3 dangerous condition was created by Lopez's attempt to evade the law enforcement officers 4 and that Walb was more innocent than Lopez as to the events immediately preceding the 5 use of deadly force.

6 At the time that deadly force was used, Lopez's flight created changing and fluid 7 circumstances that did not provide Walb an appreciable amount of time to determine the 8 type and amount of force that reasonably appeared necessary. In addition, it is undisputed 9 that before deadly force was used, Walb repeatedly shouted out unheeded warnings for 10 Lopez to get down and take his hands out of his pockets.

11 All of the above relevant factors provide a measure of support for Walb's use of 12 deadly force. After considering these factors, the Court turns to the remaining salient 13 factors: whether the decedent posed an immediate threat to the safety of the officer; whether 14 a reasonable officer would have or should have accurately perceived a mistaken fact, and 15 whether alternative methods to take Angel Lopez into custody were available. These 16 factors require an examination of the explanation provided for the use of deadly force and 17 the expert testimony attempting to reconstruct the moments immediately preceding the use 18 of deadly force.

19 Plaintiff argues that the uncontested physical evidence established that Angel Lopez 20 was going down to the ground when he was shot and was not spinning, turning or pivoting.
21 Dkt. No. 214-1 at 5. The Court agrees and finds that the trajectory of the bullet wounds 22 support the conclusion that Lopez was not standing erect or facing in the direction of Walb 23 at the moment he was hit by the bullets. But the critical question is whether those 24 conclusions foreclose the possibility that Lopez had turned towards Walb with his left hand 25 in his pocket immediately before Walb shot Lopez—leading Walb to reasonably believe 26 that Lopez was about to shoot him. Here, the evidence was in conflict.

1 Plaintiff offered expert testimony indicating that there was insufficient time for 2 Lopez to turn towards and then away from Walb in the time necessary to create the 3 trajectory angles for Lopez's bullet wounds. Vol. III at 682-699. Lance Martini testified 4 that under principles of reaction-response, it was highly unlikely that "a person in the 5 situation where they were being shot at could have turned one way and then, within less 6 than a quarter of a second, moved exactly the opposite way so that they could have been 7 struck in the fashion that we have here." Vol. III at 692.

8 Meanwhile, Defendants offered testimony from Officers Walb, Pickett, and Scott 9 that Lopez was standing on his feet and turning to his right prior to Officer Walb firing his 10 weapon. See, e.g., Vol. III at 604-05; Vol. V at 1055, 1179. Moreover, Officer Pickett 11 reiterated that he feared Lopez would fire when he testified that he would have fired at 12 Lopez had Officer Walb not fired because he felt the suspect was turning to engage the 13 officers with gunfire. See Vol. V at 1009.

14 Moreover, the officers' version of events was supported by Lucien Haag, the 15 Defendants' Ballistics Expert. According to Haag,⁶ the wound paths were consistent with 16 the officers testimony because the first set of three bullets could have missed Lopez, 17 allowing him time to change positions from his initial standing position in reaction to 18 hearing the shots, and that it was the second round of bullets that actually hit him. See, 19 e.g., Vol. VII at 1488-89 ("Mr. Lopez realizes someone is about to shoot, just to duck. So 20 he's missed. It goes over him. He is standing just fractions of a second before, when the 21 decision to shoot was made, but in the time it takes to accomplish that act, he ducks 22 down."). According to Haag, the wound paths were not consistent with someone who was 23 kneeling down in a give-up position. Id. at 1496. Moreover, the rounds that missed were 24 consistent with Officer Walb firing at center mass of someone at Lopez's height. Id. at 25

26 ⁶ The jury requested and was granted a readback of the testimony of Lucien Haag. See Vol. IX at 1742.
27
28

1 1531.

2 Other evidence further supports Defendants' theory of the case. Jennifer Pontrelli, 3 a San Diego Police Department crime scene specialist, testified that Lopez was found next 4 to bindles of narcotics and a syringe loaded with a brown liquid. Vol. II at 363-365. The 5 jury could have inferred that these facts supported Defendants' theory that Lopez's hand 6 was in his pocket by providing a reason for the hands to have been in the pocket, despite 7 the order from Walb to remove his hands. Moreover, the presence of opiates and 8 methamphetamine in Lopez's blood could explain Lopez's irrational behavior. See, e.g., 9 Vol. II at 337-38 (testimony of Dr. Jacquelyn Morhaime, County Medical Examiner, 10 stating that Lopez had opiates and methamphetamine in his system, which could have 11 affected his judgment).

12 The above facts support Walb's defense that Angel Lopez was standing, made 13 distinct movements towards Walb and after the first three fired shots missed him, dove 14 towards the ground so that the shots that hit Lopez arrived at an angle. The jury was 15 presented with two permissible views of the evidence, one supporting the Plaintiff and the 16 other supporting the defense. Giving full respect to the jury's findings and after close 17 review of all of the evidence, the Court does not arrive at a definite and firm conviction 18 that the jury choice was clearly erroneous. Ultimately, the jury's verdict was not against 19 the clear weight of the evidence.⁷

20 b. Common Knowledge of Waistband Defense

21 Plaintiffs argue that the Court erred by precluding cross-examination on the common

24 ⁷ In reviewing all of the evidence in this case, the Court is mindful that this case involves a tragedy 25 which has upended the lives of the decedent's family and others. The magnitude of the tragedy is 26 compounded by the fact that the informant's report of a hostage situation which led to the SWAT team 27 deployment was blatantly false. But, this is the information that Walb possessed and reasonably relied 28 upon. This case highlights the critical importance of performing necessary due diligence in the use of confidential informants.

1 knowledge among police of the “waistband defense.”⁸ Citing no case law or evidentiary 2 principles, Plaintiffs argue that the court erred by precluding opportunity to cross examine 3 regarding the waistband defense. The Court properly sustained these objections under 4 Federal Rule of Evidence 402 and 403. See, e.g., Vol. IV at 860; Vol. V at 1067. The 5 Court allowed a brief inquiry on this topic with Defendants’ expert Ronald McCarthy, who 6 was not familiar with the term. Vol. VI at 1281. Further, the Court explicitly allowed 7 testimony from expert Emmanuel Kapelsohn on this topic. See id. at 1328 (“You can ask 8 him if he is familiar with the waistband defense and what his understanding of the 9 waistband defense is.”). The Court allowed limited testimony on this manner but properly 10 limited Plaintiffs’ counsel from bringing in anecdotal statements or cases for which the 11 witness was not familiar. Accordingly, the Court properly limited testimony regarding the 12 waistband defense under Federal Rules of Evidence 402 and 403 as irrelevant evidence 13 that additionally had a danger of unfairly prejudicing a jury. Plaintiffs have not articulated 14 how they were substantially harmed by any error. The Court concludes that Plaintiffs has 15 neither shown that these rulings were erroneous, or were “substantially” prejudicial to 16 Plaintiffs.

17 c. Negative Character Evidence

18 Plaintiff argues that the jury’s verdict was the result of antipathy towards decedent, 19 sympathy for Walb,⁹ and defense misconduct. Plaintiffs argue that negative character 20 evidence of decedent’s background was repeatedly introduced and essentially turned the 21 trial into a “morality play in which officer Walb was good, and decedent Angel was evil.”
22 Mot. at 16. Plaintiffs take particular issue with Defendants’ references to Lopez’s gang 23

24 ⁸ The “waistband defense” is when a police officer claims that he saw an unarmed decedent reach for his 25 waistband for a non-existent weapon.

26 ⁹ Plaintiff’s point to Walb’s “highly emotional and tearful testimony.” Mot. at 11. The Court observes 27 that this is not a basis to overturn a jury verdict. Defendants correctly point out that Plaintiffs have not 28 presented any proof that the jury’s verdict was swayed by this emotional testimony. Opp. at 17.

1 membership.¹⁰

2 “Evidence of gang membership can be inflammatory, with the danger being that it 3 leads the jury to ‘attach a propensity for committing crimes to [persons] who are affiliated 4 with gangs or that a jury's negative feelings toward gangs will influence its verdict.’” 5 United States v. Harris, 587 F.3d 861, 867 (7th Cir. 2009) (quoting United States v.
6 Montgomery, 390 F.3d 1013, 1018 (7th Cir. 2004)). “Gangs generally arouse negative 7 connotations and often invoke images of criminal activity and deviant behavior.” United 8 States v. Irvin, 87 F.3d 860, 865 (7th Cir. 1996). “Evidence of gang membership can taint 9 a [party] in the eyes of a jury.” United States v. Sargent, 98 F.3d 325, 328 (7th Cir. 1996).
10 The assumption that all gang members act aggressively gives rise to the danger of unfair 11 prejudice. See Lee v. Andersen, 616 F.3d 803, 810 (8th Cir. 2010).

12 The Court, recognizing the inflammatory nature of this evidence, granted Plaintiffs’ 13 motion in limine to bifurcate the trial into a liability and damages stage over the objection 14 of the defense so that gang evidence would not be presented on questions regarding 15 damages. See Dkt. No. 128. The Court limited the consideration of such testimony by 16 Walb to his state of mind in the moments leading up to the use of deadly force. Vol. III at 17 468, 535-36. Further, the jury was instructed that the information the officers learned at 18 their briefing about Angel Lopez and the other suspect—which included inter alia his 19 gang/cartel membership—was not offered for the truth of the matter asserted. See Vol. V

21 ¹⁰ On Reply, Plaintiffs argue that Defendants snuck in multiple references to Lopez’s prior gun-related 22 convictions and other negative character information. Reply at 3-5. The Court concludes that any 23 reference to Lopez’s weapons history was relevant and not unduly prejudicial given that Walb explicitly 24 testified that he had knowledge of Lopez’s gun-related convictions at the time of the shooting. Vol. III 25 at 561. See also Vol. V at 1089 (Sergeant Ramsay’s testimony that he informed Walb and the other 26 officers about Lopez’s “prior weapons history”). The Court repeatedly stated to counsel that it was “fair 27 game” to ask what Walb had learned about the suspect at the time of the shooting. See Vol. V at 963.
28 Moreover, Plaintiffs’ counsel did not make a timely objection to the introduction of any of the complained-of evidence on relevance or Rule 403 grounds. See Vol. V at 994 (no objection), 1089-1090 (no objection), 1132 (cumulative objection only), 1123 (cumulative objection only).

1 at 993; Vol. IV at 918. In addition, the Court also limited a line of questioning related to 2 gang tattoos to the narrow topic of how knowledge of gang activities affected the witness 3 at the time of the incident. Vol. III at 535-36. See also United States v. Takahashi, 205 4 F.3d 1161, 1165 (9th Cir. 2000) (holding district court did not abuse discretion in admitting 5 evidence of gang membership where court recognized the need to prevent undue prejudice 6 and gave a limiting instruction).

7 Next, the Court finds that Plaintiff failed to timely object under Rule 403 to Officer 8 Pickett's testimony regarding gang evidence. Specifically, hearsay and relevancy 9 objections were made to two questions which produced Officer Pickett's testimony 10 referencing knowledge of Lopez's gang affiliation. Vol. V at 993. While Plaintiff later 11 filed a motion for mistrial based upon references to Plaintiff's gang membership, he failed 12 to make a timely specific objection under Rule 403 or request a timely curative instruction.
13 See Vol. V at 994.

14 Moreover, Defendants' reference to Lopez's gang membership is permissible 15 because it constituted part of the knowledge that Officer Walb had in his state of mind at 16 the time of the shooting. The evidence helped establish Walb's state of mind and the 17 overall situation of danger in the hallway, all of which was relevant to the jury's evaluation 18 of the totality of the circumstances. See Rodriguez v. Jacquez, No. CV 09-1550-MWF 19 JEM, 2012 WL 4829225, at *9 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 29, 2012), report and recommendation
20 adopted, No. CV 09-1550-MWF JEM, 2012 WL 4511410 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 2, 2012) 21 (allowing testimony regarding gang membership if this knowledge was part of petitioner's 22 state of mind); Kongkham v. Yates, No. CIV S070088LKKCMKP, 2010 WL 2292279, at 23 *1 (E.D. Cal. June 4, 2010) (same); Bravo v. City of Santa Maria, 2013 WL 12224037, at 24 *4 n.8 (C.D. Cal. July 1, 2013) (same).

25 Further, given the impeachment of Walb as to knowing Lopez's gang connection at 26 the time of the shooting, the testimony from Ramsay and Pickett supported Walb's 27
28

1 testimony that Walb, along with the other officers, were informed of the gang evidence at 2 the briefing before the mission. Finally, given the nature of the evidence, the Court 3 instructed the jury that the evidence provided to the officers in the briefing was not offered 4 for the truth of the matter asserted. See Vol. V at 993.

5 This fact pattern is distinguishable from Estate of Diaz v. City of Anaheim, 840 F.3d 6 592, 598 (9th Cir. 2016). There, the Court found that the decedent’s gang membership was 7 not relevant to the question of liability because the officer did not know the decedent Diaz
8 was a gang member. See id. (“the district court held that evidence of Diaz’s gang affiliation 9 was relevant only to damages, because Officer Bennallack did not know he was a gang 10 member.”). Here, in contrast, Officer Walb and the other officers were explicitly informed 11 that Plaintiff was in a gang.¹¹ Officer Walb testified that he was told that Lopez was 12 possibly a cartel member, and that he understood a Cartel to be a gang. See Vol. II at 448 13 (“A cartel is a gang, sir”); Vol. III at 500 (“There was mention of the cartel. I don’t 14 remember a particular gang set that was mentioned, but there was the mention of a cartel.”); 15 id. at 503 (“‘cartel’ is a gang”); id. at 561 (describing how cartels use gang members for 16 enforcement actions). Moreover, the Court observes that Plaintiffs’ counsel repeatedly 17 elicited testimony—in an attempt to impeach Walb—that would have made the jury aware 18 of Lopez’s gang membership. See, e.g., Vol. III at 37 (“[D]id you swear that you had been 19 told that Angel Lopez was possibly a member of a cartel and a gang known as Sydro [?]”).

20 Finally, Plaintiffs’ counsel had the opportunity to impeach Officer Walb’s credibility 21 on whether Walb knew that Lopez was in a gang prior to the shooting. In October 2014, 22 Officer Walb executed an affidavit in this case stating that prior to the filing of the shots 23 he was aware that “Lopez belonged to a criminal gang which I recalled was the cartel, and 24 Sydro [the gang.]” Id. at 502. Plaintiffs’ played testimony of an interview Walb provided 25

26 ¹¹ Testimony by Walb related to his knowledge of Lopez’s gang-style tattoos was also played by counsel 27 to the jury. See Vol. VI at 1220.

1 five hours after the shooting where he mentioned only a cartel and did not mention 2 knowledge of any gangs. Vol. II at 448, Vol. III at 500. At trial, Walb asserted that he did 3 not “exactly remember” when he was told Lopez was a member of Sydro and “honestly 4 [did] not remember” if he was told this information prior to the actual incident or after the 5 incident. Vol. III at 503. When asked by Mr. Iredale if it was “true that there was no 6 mention of a gang that was given to you in connection with the parolees?” Walb responded 7 that “[y]ou are confusing me with what you are asking me because a cartel is a gang, and 8 we had that information going in there. If you are referring to my Homicide interview or 9 deposition, I may not have referred to it as a gang at that time.” Vol. II at 449. Plaintiffs’ 10 counsel was given ample opportunity to impeach Walb’s credibility. The jury heard this 11 testimony and was able to assess the credibility of Walb’s assertion that he believed cartels 12 to be a gang. Consequently, evidence that Lopez had been in a gang was properly 13 admissible as part of the knowledge Walb had at the time of the shooting.

14 Further, even assuming arguendo this evidence was improperly admitted, the Court 15 concludes that its inclusion did not lead to substantial prejudice. Throughout the course of 16 the trial, the jury was made aware of substantial and admissible negative character 17 evidence—including cartel membership, drug use, criminal history, and gang-style 18 tattoos—about Mr. Lopez. See Vol. III at 502, 560; Vol. I at 170. In addition, as pointed 19 out by Walb, information that Lopez was in a cartel was information which indicated a 20 threat potential that was far greater than that created by a local gang. Vol. III at 564. Cf., 21 United States v. Verduzco, 373 F.3d 1022, 1034 (9th Cir. 2004) (Southern California juries 22 are “well aware of the image that violence and corruption is part and parcel of the illegal 23 Mexican drug-trafficking business.”)

24 Given that the jury was able to take into account Walb’s knowledge of this evidence, 25 the Court cannot conclude that the inclusion of references to Lopez’s gang membership—26 given the weight of the other evidence—substantially prejudiced the outcome of the trial.

1 d. Impugning the Character of Plaintiffs' Counsel

2 To warrant a new trial on grounds of attorney misconduct, the flavor of the 3 misconduct must “sufficiently permeate an entire proceeding to provide conviction that the 4 jury was influenced by passion and prejudice in reaching its verdict.” Doe ex. rel Rudy-
5 Glanzer v. Glanzer, 232 F.3d 1258, 1270 (9th Cir. 2000). Plaintiff argues that Defense 6 Counsel “impugned the character of Plaintiffs’ Counsel” by: (1) making a speaking 7 objection and (2) stating to the jury that a test dummy was not “prone on the ground” 8 despite an agreement between counsel to display the test dummy only vertically or 9 horizontally.

10 Ms. Stephan, defense counsel, made a speaking objection that was explicitly not 11 permitted¹² during Plaintiffs’ closing argument by stating “Objection, Your Honor. The 12 dummy’s not in the same condition as it was. There was another dowel added to it. And it 13 lacks foundation.” Vol. VII at 19-21. Ms. Stephan’s statement was factually incorrect 14 because no dowel had actually been added to the dummy. Plaintiffs’ counsel argues that 15 this statement was a deliberate attempt to accuse Mr. Iredale, plaintiffs’ counsel, of fraud 16 and tampering with the evidence. Defendant responds that she made her statement with 17 good faith, and with no intent to deliver erroneous information. Given that Ms. Stephan’s 18 remark was brief, limited to a single remark, and because the Court stated that arguments 19 of lawyers are not evidence, Defense counsel’s improper speaking objection and 20 misstatement of the facts was not substantially prejudicial to plaintiffs. See Parson v.
21 Santoro, 2017 WL 2273193, at *5-6 (C.D. Cal. Apr. 17, 2107).

22 Second, Ms. Stephan suggested in her closing argument that the dummy had been 23 misleadingly shown to the jury “prone on the ground” despite the testimony of Lucien Haag 24 who stated that Lopez was not “prone on the ground.” Plaintiff argues that defense counsel 25

26 ¹² See Civil Pretrial and Trial Procedures of the Honorable Gonzalo P. Curiel at 6 (“Speaking objections 27 are not permitted, unless the Court requests further information from counsel.”).

1 accused plaintiffs of “trying to trick the jury by displaying the mannequin in a misleading 2 way” in violation of the spirit of an agreement between counsel to only display the 3 mannequin vertically or horizontally. Mot. at 14-15. Mr. Iredale objected to this argument 4 at trial and the Court overruled the objection. The Court concludes that this statement did 5 not lead to substantial prejudice, particularly in light of the fact that the Court issued a 6 limiting instruction stating that closing arguments are merely an opportunity for the sides 7 to present the facts that they believe the evidence supports. See Vol. VII at 1620 (“As I 8 have indicated, closing arguments are just the opportunity for both sides to present the facts 9 as they believe the evidence supports . . . Ultimately if you recall the facts different . . .
10 then your memory will govern.”).

11 e. Vouching

12 Plaintiff argues that Defense Counsel argued her personal opinions and belief during 13 closing argument. See, e.g., Vol. VII at 1641 (“this is part of what I think you should 14 consider”); id. at 1641-42 (“The idea that you can wait until you see the weapon, I believe 15 that every single . . .”); id. at 1662 (“but I believe that these facts alone and that testimony 16 alone would render the testimony not reliable, or Mr. Clark.”). The Court, sua sponte, 17 repeatedly advised Ms. Stephan to refrain from vouching. See id. at 1641 (“Ms. Stephan, 18 please refrain from using the expression ‘I think.’ Avoid vouching.”); id. at 1642 (“[P]lease 19 refrain from using ‘I believe’ or ‘I think.’”); id. at 1662 (issuing same ruling).

20 Plaintiffs have not shown that Ms. Stephan’s remarks warrant the extraordinary 21 remedy of a new trial. Any vouching took place in the context of closing argument. See 22 Kehr v. Smith Harris, Upham & Co., 736 F.2d 1283, 1286 (9th Cir. 1984) (affirming denial 23 of mistrial where “offending remarks occurred principally during opening statement and 24 closing argument”). Moreover, the Court instructed the jury multiple times that arguments 25 of counsel are not evidence. See Vol. VII at 1571. Further, Ms. Stephan’s comments were 26 made with the purpose to explain her belief as to “what he testified to” as opposed to her 27
28

1 “belief of what the evidence supports.” See Vol. VII at 1659.

2 Accordingly, the Court concludes that given the limited nature of Ms. Stephan’s 3 comments and that these comments were addressed by the Court’s instructions, that any 4 vouching did not substantially prejudice Plaintiffs’ to the level required to warrant the 5 extraordinary remedy of a new trial.

6 CONCLUSION AND ORDER

7 Based on the reasoning above, the Court will DENY Plaintiffs’ Motion for a New 8 Trial.

9 IT IS SO ORDERED.
